RISK PROFILE

MANAGER COMMENTS

In February diversification was key with global bonds emerging as a welcome counterbalance against equity market declines. Following a robust January 2025, February witnessed a moderation in the narrative of US economic dominance. Escalating concerns regarding the implications of newly enacted US policies dampened both business and household confidence, while economic growth anxieties resurfaced. Underperformance in US markets negatively impacted overall developed market equities, resulting in a -0.7% total return for the month. The stock market experienced a notable shift as investors transitioned from high-performing growth stocks to undervalued value stocks. This rotation was driven by concerns over elevated valuations in the technology sector and a growing interest in sectors like financial services, basic materials, and healthcare. Notably, nine out of the eleven stock market sectors outperformed the S&P 500 during this period, reflecting a broader market trend favouring value-oriented investments.

Diversified investors also found solace in global bond markets, which demonstrated their effectiveness as portfolio stabilizers during equity downturns. Despite potential inflationary pressures from proposed tariffs and stronger-than-anticipated inflation metrics, bond markets prioritized deteriorating US sentiment indicators and growth vulnerabilities. February data revealed weakening in both commercial and consumer confidence metrics. Service sector activity and small business investment plans declined, while consumer sentiment experienced its most significant drop since August 2021. Though the House of Representatives approved a budget framework providing sufficient fiscal space to extend the 2017 Tax Cuts and Jobs Act, it lacked clear provisions for additional fiscal stimulus measures. This backdrop contributed to declining Treasury yields, with the Bloomberg Global Aggregate index delivering a 1.4% return in February.

GLOSSARY

Equities represent a shareholders' stake in the company as identified on a company's balance sheet. It is the residual value to the owner after deducting a company's liabilities from the total assets.

Bonds are fixed-income instrument that represents a loan made by an investor to a borrower (typically corporate or governmental).

Property: investment interest in a real estate company (usually listed) directly or through a collective investment scheme.

Collective Investments are a group of pooled investment accounts held by a bank or trust company. The financial institution groups assets from individuals and organizations to develop a single larger diversified portfolio available to smaller investors.

Derivatives are financial contracts, set between two or more parties, that derive their value from an underlying asset, group of assets or benchmark.

Money Market Instruments represent a short-term loan between banks and other financial institutions.

Volatility is a statistical measure of the dispersion of returns for a given security or market index. In most cases, the higher the volatility, the riskier the security. Volatility is usually expressed by calculating the standard deviation of the security in question.

Maximum Drawdown is the maximum loss from a peak to a trough of a portfolio, before a new peak is attained.

Total Expense Ratio is the global standard used to measure the impact that the deduction of management and operating costs have on a fund's value. It gives you an indication of the effects these costs have on the future growth of your investment portfolio. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. Also, the current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TERs.

Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. CISs are traded at ruling process and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. The portfolio may include underlying foreign investments, and may as a result be expose to macroeconomic, political, foreign exchange, tax, settlement, reporting or illiquidity risk factors that may be different to similar investments in the South African markets. The underlying foreign investments may also be adversely affected by foreign investment policies, restrictions on repatriation of investments and other restrictions and controls that may be imposed by the relevant authorities of the relevant countries. The CIS Manager reserves the right to close the fund to new investors if it is necessary to limit further inflows for it to be managed in accordance with its mandate.

Dealing prices are calculated on a net asset value and auditor's fees, bank charges and trustee fees are levied against the portfolios. Performance is calculated for the fund as well as the individual investor. Income distributions are included in the performance calculations. Performance numbers and graphs are sourced from Global Investment Reporting (Pty) Ltd as at the date of this document for a lump sum investment, using NAV to NAV basis over all reporting periods with income reinvested. The investment performance is for illustrative purposes only. The investment performance is calculated after taking the actual initial fees and all ongoing fees into account.

The reinvestment of income is calculated on the actual amount distributed per participatory interest by using the ex-dividend date NAV price of the applicable class of the portfolio, irrespective of the actual reinvestment date. The value of participatory interests or the investment may go down as well as up. The CIS Manager does not provide any guarantee either with respect to the capital or the return of a portfolio. All CIS are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. Income is reinvested on the investment date. The CIS Manager has the right to close the portfolio to new investors in order to manage it more efficiently in accordance with its mandate.

The TER charged by any underlying fund held as part of a fund's portfolio is included in the fund expenses portion of the TER, but trading and implementation costs incurred in managing the fund is included. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TER's. The 1-year TER is for the 12 months to end of February (updated annually). The 3-year TER is for a rolling 36-month period to the last quarter end (December, March, June and September). Transaction costs are a necessary cost in managing a fund and impacts the fund's return. They should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of fund, the investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER. The Total Investment Charge is the sum of the Total Expense Ratio (TER) and transaction costs.
